1 Introduction

---

Cold fusion (CF) was announced on March 23, 1989, by Dr. Martin Fleischman and Dr. Stanley Pons. The immense potential energy benefits of CF (also referred to as Low Energy Nuclear Reactions, LENR) were immediately recognized. Humankind's need for a source of cheap, clean, inexhaustible, and safe energy seemed to be permanently satisfied. However, LENR was rejected by mainstream science within a year or so, and it remains highly marginalized to this day. On the other hand, the phenomenon has continued to be rigorously pursued by many investigators in several countries. The mounting evidence for the reality of LENR shows that its potential benefits may yet be realized.

Because it is a “pariah” science, LENR has attracted relatively few new investigators to the field. Many of the researchers became active in the early months and years after the 1989 announcement. Now 30 years later many of these investigators are leaving the field. The results of their many years of LENR investigation are at risk of being lost, which would be extremely unfortunate not only for the field, but also potentially for humanity.

An initiative is underway by Dr. Thomas Grimshaw's LENRGY LLC to mitigate the risk of loss of research records of LENR investigators. Its objectives are to collect, organize, document, and archive these records. The LENR Research Documentation Initiative (LRDI) assists researchers in making sure that their efforts are preserved and to keep the records available for additional analysis and interpretation. It is described in a recent article in Infinite Energy<sup>1</sup> as well as on a dedicated website<sup>2</sup>.

Peter Gluck, a resident of Romania, has a long-standing strong interest in LENR. One of the main ways that he has expressed his interest is through a very active blog site, “Ego Out”, which he maintained from late 2011 through 2018<sup>3</sup>. The content of his blogsite may well constitute a major contribution to the LENR field.

An LRDI project has been initiated with Dr. David Nagel and his NUCAT Energy LLC to document the Ego Out blogsite. The objectives of the Ego Out Documentation Project (EODP) are to preserve the contents of the blogsite and make it more readily available for analysis and interpretation in the future. Dr. Nagel had the original idea<sup>4</sup> and obtained a copy of the blogsite on a flash drive from Abd ul-Rahman Lomax. The purpose of this report is to present the results of the EODP. Future potential work is also proposed, information on how the project is being performed is presented, and brief professional biographies of the authors are included. Thanks go to Mr. Lomax for assisting with the start of this project and providing the flash drive with the Ego Out blogsite.

2 Who is Dr. Peter Gluck?

Peter Gluck (Figure 2-1) lives in Cluj-Napoca, Romania. He received his PhD in chemical engineering from Jassy Technical Institute in about 1983. He apparently had a position with INCDTIM<sup>5</sup>, as he is retired from that organization<sup>6</sup>.

Dr. Peter Gluck at ICCF-11 in 2004

Dr. Gluck's strong interest in LENR has been expressed not only in his Ego Out blogsite, but also in his participation in International Conferences on Cold Fusion (ICCFs). He became acquainted with Dr. Nagel at ICCF-11 in 2004, and they corresponded on LENR in subsequent years. A list of Dr. Gluck's LENR publications go back to 1991, just two years after the 1989 announcement by Fleischmann and Pons. His publications, which have been found mostly on the LENR-CANR.org website<sup>7</sup>, are shown below.

3 Overview of the Ego Out Blogsite

Dr. Gluck’s blogsite was initiated on December 15, 2010 and became fully active early the following year. He used Google’s “Blogger” hosting service<sup>12</sup>. Dr. Gluck created the term “Ego Out” and defined it as follows:

Definition of ego-out : (ē'gō-out). 1. (n.) The quantity of information, knowledge and wisdom lost by the death of an individual.

The site was apparently preceded by “Kappa Newsletter”, but information on that document has not been located.

Much information on the Ego Out blogsite is available to the EODP on the homepage. Figure 3-1 provides an example (November 15, 2017). It includes the current blogpost (date followed by title), labels (which were not always used), contributors, blog archive (by year and month), and 82 followers. He was assisted by contributor Georgina Popescu. The site has 1408 blogposts from 2010 to 2018 (88 months):

2010	10
2011	185
2012	140
2013	82
2014	88
2015	385
2016	373
2017	142
2018	3
Total	1408

The most active period was from 2011 to 2017, when an average of 17 posts were made every month – more than one every other day on average. During this period, most months had 30 or more blogposts. They normally consist of Dr. Gluck’s initial post, comments from the participants, and his replies to the comments. The blogsite has had nearly 1.5 million pageviews.

<sup>12</sup> Blogger is a blog-publishing service that allows multi-user blogs with time-stamped entries. It was developed by Pyra Labs, which was bought by Google in 2003. The blogs are hosted by Google and generally accessed from a subdomain ofblogspot.com. (From Wikipedia, https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Blogger\_\(service\))).

Crisis - the New Black

"The trouble with our times is that the future is not what it used to be."
Paul Valery

And this is more than just a Motto... The "new black" in the financial world has become living each day as if it was a crisis! You can learn more about this if you decide to join me at the Gaudeamus International Book Fare in Bucharest, for the official launching of my latest book "Crisis - the New Black"

The event is scheduled to start at 18:00hrs on Thursday, November 23rd, at the Romexpo Central Pavilion, level 7.70, Stand 307 - Coresi Publishing House.

The invitation is by no means for single use, as it is opened for all colleagues, family members and friends, without any discrimination - be it age or orientation (professional, philosophical or cultural).

Looking forward to seeing you there!

Example Blogpost: November 15, 2017 (Lower Part)

The blogposts typically have at the top clever images or pithy observations selected by Dr. Gluck. They typically address various aspects of research and human existence generally from a variety of sources. A typical example is in Figure 3-1: “The trouble with our times is that the future is not what it used to be.” Paul Valery.

The blogposts appear to be dedicated almost exclusively to some aspect of the LENR field. Each of the blogposts has a title; the list of the 1408 titles<sup>13</sup> is included in the Appendix. The number of characters allowed for each title is fixed, so many of the titles are cut off and are followed by an ellipsis (...).

Unfortunately, it appears that Dr. Gluck was having health problems near his final blogposts, which he described. He had just 3 posts in 2018, in February, March and October describing his condition. His final post was:

Saturday, October 20, 2018
Dum spiro, spero!
Mega Thank You, my friends!
Dum spiro, spero !
What else could I say?...

Dum spiro, spero means “While I breathe, I hope” in Latin and is a modern paraphrase of ideas that survive in two ancient writers, Theocritus and Cicero<sup>14</sup>. In recent email exchanges<sup>15</sup> between Dr. Nagel and Dr. Gluck’s daughter, Antonia Toth, she indicated that Dr. Gluck is living but has a number of handicaps that limit his participation in the LENR field. Email exchanges<sup>16</sup> between Georgina Popescu and Alan Smith also indicate that Dr. Gluck is living but limited in his functions because of health problems.

4 Ego Out Blogposts

In order to preserve the Ego Out blogsite and make its contents more readily accessible, the blogsite has been converted to PDF documents from the HTML. The “Create” → “PDF From Webpage” functionality of Adobe Acrobat was utilized<sup>17,18</sup>. The process was accomplished for each of the 88 months that Dr. Gluck made blogposts.

The combined page total of the resulting PDF files is over 8000. Initially, the 88 files comprised a total of nearly 400 GB<sup>19</sup>. The Adobe Acrobat functionality, “Save As Other” → “Reduced Size PDF” functionality of Adobe Acrobat was then used, which resulted in a cumulative total of just over 96 GB<sup>20</sup>. The file sizes for each month, year, and blogsite total are shown before and after file reduction in Table 4-1.

5 Blogsite Archive

---

The Ego Out blogsite downloads and conversions to PDF files described in the preceding sections was accomplished with the currently active blogsite on the Web. As a separate measure for preserving the blogsite, Abd Lomax has copied the original website onto local storage media, including a USB flash drive. Mr. Lomax made a complete archive on July 31, 2018, using the freeware WinHTTrack Website Copier (Version 3.49-2, 5/29/2017)<sup>22</sup>. The Ego Out archive has the following characteristics<sup>23</sup>:

49,688 files

27,674 folders

7.57 GB size on disk

Mr. Lomax has provided a copy of the archive to the EODP on a USB flash drive<sup>24</sup>. It is included in the Project Dropbox folder. A screenshot of the uppermost content of the folder is shown in Figure 5-1. Thanks go to Mr. Lomax for his assistance to the Project in providing this archive.

6 Future Opportunities

Much remains to be done to “capture the full value” of Dr. Gluck’s Ego Out blogsite. For example, the Ego Out followers can be identified in the future by software analysis of the blogsite or by manual review for each of the 82 individuals.

More importantly, now that the blogsite has been captured in the readily accessible PDF format, the contents may be analyzed, interpreted and documented. As an example, the content may be reviewed and annotated to address the following questions:

- Where were Dr. Gluck’s primary interests in the LENR field?
- What were his particular insights into the phenomenon?
- What were his views on experiments and explanations?
- What were his contributions to experimental design and development of hypotheses?
- Who were his main collaborators?
- Can his work be used to improve reproducibility?

Another important question may be to what extent Dr. Gluck’s contributions can help enhance LENR communication and improve its acceptance by mainstream science.

7 Project Methods

The methods used in the Ego Out Documentation Project are based on general LRDI procedures that are modified to meet the specific requirements of individual projects<sup>25</sup>. The EODP is being performed according to accepted project management practices<sup>26</sup>. The overall LRDI procedure is set forth in a recent article in Infinite Energy<sup>27</sup>.

As noted above, the EODP was the brainchild of Dr. David Nagel of NUCAT Energy LLC. He obtained a download of the Ego Out blogsite on a USB flash drive and suggested the project to Dr. Grimshaw. Abd Lomax provided the blogsite download, and Dr. Grimshaw launched the project under the umbrella of the LRDI. Dane Livelsberger has served as information technology consultant to determine the best way to accomplish the conversion to PDF format. Both Mr. Livelsburger and Dr. Grimshaw accomplished the conversions. As noted above, a Dropbox folder has been used to store the PDF files and the project documents. Memos have been prepared to record progress as follows:

8 About the Authors

The authors of this report are well qualified to accomplish the EODP, with extensive experience within and outside the LENR field.

8.1 Thomas Grimshaw

Dr. Grimshaw contributes to the LENR field in four main areas – policy analysis, support of investigators, research documentation, and outreach and communications. He performs the services in the context of his firm LENRGY LLC. The principal objective of his policy analysis work is to achieve changes in public policy for support of LENR research to realize its energy and other benefits. A second objective is to promote proactive planning policies for mitigation of anticipated short-term impacts of LENR as a disruptive technology.

Dr. Grimshaw supports LENR investigators and other interested parties in a variety of ways, such as assistance with proposals for research funding and helping benefactors to evaluate the methods and results of researchers. His research documentation work focuses on capturing and preserving the records of LENR investigators, particularly those who are near the end of their careers, while the records are still available. He conducts outreach activities within and outside the LENR field to advance understanding and promote acceptance of the phenomenon for improved support and realization of LENR benefits.

8.2 David Nagel

Dr. Nagel deals with technical and programmatic functions of his company, NUCAT. He had four years of active duty and 26 years of reserve service, including three tours as a Commanding Officer. He retired in 1990 with the rank of Captain, U. S. Naval Reserve. Dave joined the civilian staff of the Naval Research Laboratory after his active duty. As a member of the Senior Executive Service and leader of a physics division for over a dozen years, he managed the experimental and theoretical research and development efforts of 150 government, contractor and other personnel.

For the past dozen years, Dave has been a Research Professor in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering of The George Washington University. He taught graduate level courses on MEMS and NanoTechnology. Now, Dave mentors both undergraduate and graduate students. His current research centers on low energy nuclear reactions.
